

Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 13 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Sunny spells and showers throughout, with thunder possible.

Today:

A fine and largely dry start, then plenty of sunny spells throughout the day. Widespread showers develop from late morning, with these heavy and possibly thundery into the afternoon. Feeling mild, but becoming a little breezy. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Tonight:

Showers largely clear through evening, but the odd scattered shower remains possible along coasts. Clear skies for western areas, low cloud developing further east. Patchy grass frost possible for Cumbria. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Friday:

A fairly cloudy day, with the best of the bright spells to the far west. Scattered showers remain possible throughout, but these lighter and less widespread than recently. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:

Remaining unsettled throughout the period, with sunny spells and showers. These showers are likely to persist overnight in places, with the widespread daytime showers heavy and thundery at times.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.